

Friends,

I hope everyone had a good holiday season and the new year has gotten off to a good start.

Here are a few things happening in the water world.

1) We are now accepting applications and nominations for the 10th annual Silicon Valley Water Conservation Awards. All of the details and an application form can be found at <http://www.waterawards.org>. Please share this opportunity with any businesses, organizations, agencies or individuals who you think deserve recognition for outstanding water conservation programs or practices.

2) We just posted a new response to misinformation about the Bay Delta Water Quality Control Plan being distributed by the San Francisco Public Utilities Commission. Please check it out at <https://www.tuolumne.org/trt-responds-sfpuc-misinformation/>

3) Please join TRT for "A Wild and Scenic Evening with Tim Palmer" next Wednesday in Oakland. Award-winning photographer and author Tim Palmer will present stunning photos from his new book, "Wild and Scenic Rivers: An American Legacy." This is a free event. Details can be found here.

We hope to see you soon.
