

The Farther One Travels

Recent paintings by Misha Flores and featuring the skateboard sculptures of Luis Marroquin.

Beatles fans will get the reference, a lyric ("The farther one travels the less one knows") from a song about exploration, physically journeying out, seeing the beauty in what's here at home, and ultimately looking within for answers. Misha's paintings explore that range of experience in her own life, from travels to India, and appreciations of the mundane, to meditative revelations. Luis' carved skateboards actually transform a physical mode of transport into something more transcendent and stunning.