

After three separate rounds in foreclosure and bankruptcy, the Clocktower Building at 446 Old County Road in Pacifica has been saved. The borrower sold another piece of vacant land and paid off the First National Bank Of Northern California loan. First National sold the existing loan to a San Mateo County real estate investor. The foreclosure sale had been postponed more than 28 times to try to save the property.

“Big Banker”