

Thank you to all the poledancers. (Michel's Electric pole dancers, that is). Those guys were 60 feet off the ground in cherry pickers swaying eight feet in both directions and well, the photos tell it all.

For those unaware on Tuesday Pacifica's lower Linda Mar sustained a six to ten second burst of greater than 100 mph winds at 1:56am PST. A power pole got blown down (broken in three places) and dumped an 11,000 Volt power line and transformer onto six homes). At 1:30pm today they finished replacing the line and restored power.

The final pole is a thing of beauty, and you could've made furniture or a boat mast out of that wood.

PS, Linda Mar is not below sea level, and yes, I can build a fence lol. At 350,000 views if you haven't seen the 2nd fastest growing YouTube video in San Mateo County's history check it out here:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=QOUTjoOgBks>

Stay dry,
Dan Stegink
Pacifica CA